Summer Intern Program Here Helping Students to Earn and Learn

Earn and learn and find out how government works—that's the essence of Princeton's new Summer Intern program, now at its half-way point.

About 15 high-school age Princeton residents are working in the offices, drafting rooms, agencies and "in the field" for Borough and Township governments and for the Princeton Regional School Board.

Each one is earning $500 for eight weeks of full-time work. Funding comes from the Youth Employment Service, which is contributing $2,500, and from the two municipal governments which have matched that amount.

The plan is the conception of Leonard Brown, director of the Princeton Youth Center. Ann Erdman of "Princeton Jobs"; John Dismukes for YES; James Barbour of the personnel department at the University, and Connie Moore of the Mercer County Neighborhood Youth Corps.

Young people have been working for Borough, Township and schools for many summers—the five college-age youths on the Township's public works crew, the dozen teens in the Township's Summer Youth Program, the half-dozen boys who work on grass-cutting and maintenance for the Borough, young workers funded through Federal Neighborhood Youth Corps money.

But the Summer Intern Program is different. For one thing, it is aimed at Princeton young people who are members of a minority group. For another, it is designed as a learning, as well as earning, experience.

Seminars have been planned for four Friday afternoons during the summer. Supervisors in municipal offices have developed projects for the young people to work on—projects which will be not just make-work, but genuinely useful to the operation of government.

"The key element will be the type of jobs and the quality of the supervisors," said the March 1 letter inviting municipal cooperation.

It hasn't been all that easy, and some rocks have showed up in the road. Municipal workers haven't had time to block out firm projects for the interns to work on, there isn't really enough desk space—or even standing room, especially in Township offices—and even the best municipal worker often just isn't a teacher. And a few interns have left either out of boredom or for other jobs.

"It's a good program" emphasized Township Administrator Joseph R. Nini. "Sure, we have problems in time and space, but the whole concept is interesting—it could be a good return for both sides, by the time summer is over and long-range, it can be even better in the future."

In Mr. Nini's domain, there are six interns. Lucy Cumberbatch works in the Township tax office, learning how to handle checks and money and to make out bank-deposit tickets. She's learning about office machines, too, and the routines of an office.

Darrell C. Newlin is in the engineering department, working in the field with the survey crew, observing the techniques of surveying, recording data, filing maps

'Loose' Rent Control is Introduced by Borough.

A two-year rent leveling ordinance providing "very loose control" was introduced by Borough Council at a special meeting Monday night. Public hearing will be at another special meeting Tuesday, July 31 at 8 p.m. in Borough Hall.

It took four hours of explanation and discussion, with an audience composed almost entirely of landlords, before Council finally introduced the measure by a 42 vote. The four Democrats favored the measure, the two Republicans voted "no."

However, Republican Mayor Robert W. Cawley, who didn't have to vote because no tie was involved, said on Tuesday that he favored the ordinance, although he felt some uneasiness about it.

A companion anti-reprisal ordinance, designed to protect tenants who might speak out in favor of rent control, was introduced unanimously. Public hearing July 31, also.

Copies of the ordinance, as Council amended it Monday, are available in Borough Hall and at the Princeton Public Library for those who would like to study its provisions before the hearing.

Fear Rent Increases. Both Councilman Thomas Cawley and Councilman Arthur P. Morgan, who voted against the measure, said they were afraid it would generate rent increases, not curtail them.

Mr. Morgan declared sharply of one provision — allowing a written lease contracted before August 1 of this year to remain in effect until it expires after which time the rent reverts to its May 1, 1973 level, plus an inflation formula — "The very people we're trying to protect will have to swallow this for 12 months!"

"The ordinance will prevent only the most flagrant abuses," warned Mayor Cawley, adding that no regulation is ever without loopholes. It was he who described the measure as providing "very loose controls."

The ordinance sets up a Rent Leveling Board to consist of one tenant, one landlord and three people who aren't tenants, landlords or public officials. They will enforce the ordinance and hear complaints.

Cost $8-10,000. A part-time employee will sit at a telephone and answer what the Borough expects to be an avalanche of questions about the detailed and complex measure. Council estimates an annual cost of $8-10,000 for making the ordinance work.

Four factors will allow the landlord to raise rents:

1. Inflation. A landlord can increase rent by the percentage of price increase that occurred during the tenant's prior lease, as shown by the Federal Consumer Price Index (CPI) for the Philadelphia-Camden area. There are no CPI figures for Princeton. The base rent used for this calculation is the rent the tenant was paying on May 1 of this year.

That date was chosen because public discussion of rent control began about that time, and there have been "very unwarranted increases," according to Mrs. Sigmund, since May 1. The ordinance has no roll-back provisions, and this May 1 date is regarded as a compromise.

2. Local tax increases. A tax surcharge may be added, apportioned to the amount of floor space a tenant occupies. If several tenants are in a building, they would share the tax increase according to how big their apartments are.

3. Capital improvement surcharge. If a landlord makes capital improvements that "significantly" improve the value of the property, and are in line with "capital improvements" as defined by the Internal Revenue Service for income-tax computations, the landlord can add the surcharge. Like the tax sur-

HIGH RENT? Mrs. Margaret Schmidt, 36 Humbert St., says these dangling drain pipes are so dangerous her grand-children can't play safely in her yard. Her landlord has not only refused to repair them, she charges, but has evicted her as of August 31. She says she's being evicted because she has publicly come out in favor of rent control. Her rent of $100 a month has been upped in five years to $175, although essential repairs haven't been made she adds that another tenant, who also spoke for rent control, had his rent doubled charge, it will be apportioned among the tenants. This monthly surcharge may be one and one-half percent of the total expenditures the landlord made.

4. Hardship. Increases in this category can be allowed only by the Rent Leveling Board.

The base rent goes up only under the first or fourth provisions; not if there has been a tax increase or capital improvement.

Councilman Robert Powell, who made the lengthy and detailed presentation of the ordinance, gave the following example of the way the inflationary clause might work.

If you were paying $100 a month rent on May 1 and your landlord raised the rent to $150 on June 1, you will have to pay that increase until June 1, of next year. At that time, the increase will be re-calculated by using the CPI figures applied to May 1, 1973, the base rent date of the ordinance. If the CPI showed a six percent increase, for example, your June 1, 1974 rent would go back to $106, and that figure would become the new "base rent."

Since it's mid-summer, many September leases may already have been negotiated, but Mayor Cawley said Monday night that these leases would have to be changed and re-calculated on the May 1 base.

Protecting Tenants. Capital improvements caused the most discussion and disagreement at Monday night's session. What's the difference between maintenance and capital improvement? How do you protect a tenant and this is Mrs. Sigmund's agonized concern. From a landlord determined to make improvements to his property which the tenant doesn't want, but will probably be charged for?

Chiefly for this reason, Mrs. Sigmund, Councilman Joseph P. Moore and Councilman Martin P. Lombardo abstained from voting on an amendment which even Councilman Powell worried might be "too lenient" in allowing expenses for capital improvements to be passed along.

Mr. Powell explained that Council wanted capital improvements — like a new roof, a new furnace — to be spread out over the useful life of the improvement, not dumped on the tenant all at once. The original ordinance allowed a landlord to charge the tenant any one percent of the improvement cost each month, but as amended, the one and one-half percent allowed, is in line with Phase II guidelines.

There are exceptions written into the ordinance: one-family houses, any unit that rents for more than $500 a month, and University-owned units unless they are rented out commercially, like the Palmer Square and Stanworth apartments that aren't occupied by University staff.

"Right now," Mrs. Sigmund explained, "institutional housing keeps people out of the free rental market. But if this changes, we may have to amend the ordinance. The idea behind the ordinance is to preserve, and maybe even increase, the stock of low and middle-income housing we have. That's why we've made the exemptions."

"This ordinance may force some rents up," she conceded, "but it's not a final answer. Sometime we must face up to the honest responsibility we have, and may have to subsidize some rentals."

back in the office. Summer is the busiest time in the Township's engineering department, and this summer, with the new Research Road on the boards, it's even busier.

Freddie Lee Wilson has just joined the Township's mechanics, taking over from an intern who left. He will work with the two full-time mechanics, applying his aptitude for auto mechanics to the necessary work of this Township department.

One of Mr. Nini's hoped-for projects has had to be set aside. He had an intern in the purchasing department, and hoped to have the youth help in research and work toward preparing a purchasing man-

Consolidation Committee to be Appointed

Formal resolutions establishing a Joint Consolidation Committee of Princeton were passed unanimously Monday night by Borough Council and Township Committee.

The ten-member body will consist of five appointees from each Princeton. Volunteers with skills in economics, management, government and finance are invited to come forward. They will be interviewed before a final selection is announced.

The Committee will be told to review all previous studies of consolidation and find out what it would be like if major services that are now separate—police, health, the courts, welfare, engineering and administration—were combined.

Long-range planning for personnel in the event of consolidation will also be an important part of the study. All available forms of government will be reviewed. Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley commented this week that a restudy of Princeton's forms of government might have been done long ago, if consolidation hadn't been an ever-present thought.

Should a consolidated Princeton have a strong mayor, a city manager? Can government be structured so there is less demand of part-time volunteer elected officials? Should officials be elected by wards? Should elections be held less frequently?

A long range exploration of tax rates, on both separate and consolidated bases, is another vital area of study. The Committee will be asked to study ways of handling the transition to lessen the impact of large shifts in rates. The proposed legislation by Senator William Schluter, easing the way for consolidated towns, is expected to be crucially important.

Finally, the Committee will give a specific recommendation, and block out a schedule for changes.

ual which the Township needs badly. But the head of the department, Michael Fayko, left the Township for another job and this meant that the intern had no one to guide and teach him, so the intern himself found another place to work.

Borough. In the Borough, Marc Campbell works along side David Blake, the health officer, and Andrew O'Hare, the sanitary inspector who keeps an eye on restaurants.

"These kids have to learn on their own time, more or less," observes Borough Administrator Robert F. Munnery. "Things are busy in Princeton in the summer—it used to be that everything died, and we have so much to do we don't always have time to teach."

Elaine Ware is working in the Princeton Regional Planning Board under its secretary, Adele Finney. Deborah Givson has been assigned to Municipal Court.

Deborah Scudder is working with Mrs. Karin Slaby in the Commission on Aging and Holly Rhodes is with the executive director of the Joint Civil Rights Commission.

And then, out in the Stony Brook Administration Building of the school board, Leslie Brown is in the business office of Ronald Novak; Cynthia Thomas is at Princeton High in the guidance office and Grace McEwen is in the Princeton Regional Schools' media library.

Finding Work. "The hardest problem is to find work for the guys," comments Kenneth McClain, job counselor assigned to the program by the Youth Center. "Most of them had jobs lined up for summer. And it isn't too hard to find girls' jobs, anyway. I think most of these interns—especially the guys working on surveying or in assignments like that—find the experience very useful. They And it will look good on a even use it around the house! job resume."

Mr. McClain, a Rutgers student, runs the Friday afternoon seminars. He's had Joan Hill, director of the Civil Rights Commission as speaker at one seminar.

Next Friday, July 27, Township Mayor Jay Bleiman, Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley, Borough Councilman Joseph Moore and Township Committee woman Barbara Smoyer, will talk about government. How do you get

YOU CAN STILL BOWL.
Probably No Restaurant.
Townhouses in both Borough and Township and the future of a bowling alley occupied the Princeton Regional Planning Board last Wednesday.
It was the board's last meeting until September 5.

Charles LaPlaca would like to build townhouses in the $50,000 price range on 4.7
acres he owns next to the Lloyd Terrace housing project on Harrison, and the old filled-in quarry. He was before the Planning Board only for subdivision and consolidation of some lots.

The snag is that on the Borough's Master Plan map,
this land is shown as "park".
Also, Spruce Street is shown as going through to tie in with an existing cul-de-sac.

Mr. LaPlaca's architects want to keep Spruce a private road so they can build housing on both sides. On the northside of Spruce, they don't have the three acres required by law if the street were put through as a public road. In addition, more green space
could be preserved, the architect said, if the street could be kept private, and Mr. La-Placa allowed to arrange houses on his own. The exact number of units hasn't been determined yet, and Frank Quinby, Mr. LaPlaca's engineer, said there were "many variables" on price.

William Miller, counsel for the board, said he was uneasy about asking the public to forego a public street on the grounds that the site plan would be better, when no site plan was submitted. He suggested submission of both site plan and subdivision request.

"There is substantial opo-sition to this project," warned John McGoldrick, 163 Hamilton Avenue. "But it isn't focused because the application isn't focused. Are there grounds for opposing it? We don't know."

The request for subdivision approval was withdrawn, presumably to be re-submitted, with site plans, in September.

Turning to the bowling alley
at 138 Nassau, the board refused to recommend that the Borough Zoning Board grant a use variance for conversion of the lanes to retail and restaurant use. The project will go before the zoners anyway, at the July 26 meeting, but without the Planning Board's favorable recommendation.

Not enough space for the 50 additional parking stalls that would be needed, the board said. Besides, the rear of the building protrudes into the Lincoln Court area which is currently under study for redevelopment as a lane for service trucks, parking and a shopping mall.

Gordon Strauss, attorney for Robert Potras, the potential buyer, said the structure will continue to stick out into Lincoln Court whether it's a bowling alley or a restaurant.
Changes would be inside. He added a wistful hope that "some day" there will be a parking garage in the area.

More Houses? Eight terrace houses proposed by H.M.S.
Land Company for Stuart Road at Great Road East, were rejected by the housing
sub-committee of the Planning Board but the board itself agreed to postpone any action on the proposal until September.

The housing sub-committee
recommended that the Township Zoning Board not grant the required use variance because H.M.S. plans don't conform to existing housing, nor to the new "village" concept enunciated by the Regional Planning Board. "Backdoor planning" is the way the housing group phrased it.

"While we're in the middle of working out a housing policy, our position can't very well change," explained board chairman Hans K. Sander.

"An overall scheme to structure the housing of the entire community is necessary. Just because you own a lot—that's a 'private interest' reason for developing."

Architect Philetus H. Holt,
the "H" of H.M.S., protested that plans call for only two more units than are allowed under the present ordinance, and he suggested that the
"village" concept, as outlined,
is a flexible one. He added that he and his partners wish the housing sub-committee report hadn't been delayed so long, and told the Planning Board H.M.S. had delayed its own presentation, waiting.

Mr. Sander told him the Planning Board had written a dozen developers, asking them to hold off until the housing policy was wrapped up.

FROM CURBS TO TRAINS.
Committee Has It All. With a light agenda of new business, Township Committee discussed at length two issues over which it had little control Monday night. One was the construction of curbing and sidewalks on Mount Lucas Road; the other was the surrey state of the commuter railroads serving the New York metropolitan area.

The curbing issue was raised at a prior Committee meeting. Councilwoman Barbara Smoyer, who had since visited the site first hand, re-introduced the matter for discussion.

"I've changed my thinking,"
she said. "Concrete sidewalks
there are inappropriate."

Councilman Abbot Low Mor-
fat agreed, and recommended that an ordinance requiring concrete sidewalks be amended. "Asphalt in some areas would be more esthetic and less expensive. Sidewalks could also be made six to seven feet wide, instead of the present four feet, so they could be used as bicycle paths as well."

Arnold Dumey, of 641 Mount Lucas Road, whose house fronts on the new curbing and sidewalk construction, questioned the need in the first place.

Sacred Curb "This curb is in the middle of nowhere," Mr. Dumey said. "It's a curb that no one is even going to use. It has destroyed the ecology of the place and destroyed three of the best trees." "Give me a long-term contract for $5 and I'll get some exercise removing it. There's nothing sacred about this curb," he said.

Mayor Jay Bleiman agreed with Mr. Dumey's contention that the present configuration of the roadway was dangerous. "The center line of the road is now wrong but it will be realigned," he said.

Committee generally was concerned with the larger question of where and when curbing and sidewalks were appropriate along Township streets, especially those in relatively natural settings. Mr. Bleiman tabled the matter for further discussion in executive session.

Small Salace Aside from the use of asphalt or concrete, however, the matter is already closed in the case of Mount Lucas Road. The curbing has been laid, and the digging for the sidewalk is complete.

Mr. Dumey walked away barely placated. He was still waiting for someone to give him five bucks and the authority to tear the curb down. "In the long run we'll be better off without it," he said.

The commuters' woes were sung by Councilman Sanford C. Reynolds Jr. As Mr. Reynolds came home on the train Monday night he scrawled a hand-written resolution asking Committee to advise the New Jersey State Transportation Department of the inconveniences suffered by Township commuters.

He read the resolution and it was approved unanimously. When time came for comments from the audience, Mr. Reynolds found a great deal of sympathy.

Go To It Dr. William Cherry suggested that perhaps the time had come for the government to nationalize the railroads. Leonard Newton addressed himself to the indignities we all put up with. In some earlier time we wouldn't have waited for Washington or Trenton to act. We would have taken action on our own.

"Go to it," said Councilman William Sutphin, a veteran of many battles against Penn Central, in response to Mr. Newton. "So many large issues go by default because not one single citizen will press the issue."

Mayor Bleiman concluded the discussion. "I guess I don't want to give this talk to the Joint Commission on Public Transportation."

Summer Raze

Fire-fly Means
Mid-July

The good weather we've been having is expected to continue through Thursday and into Friday, but at this point, the weekend weather does not look promising. It should begin to cloud up on Friday, with showers forecast for Saturday, ending early Sunday morning. Hopefully most of Sunday can be salvaged.

In other matters, over which the Committee had considerably more control, a variance was approved that would allow Harold Williams to open an auto body shop at 875 State Road.

Committee also rescheduled to August 6 a hearing on an ordinance providing for emergency traffic regulations, awarded a contract for its annual road resurfacing program, and heard a report from Police Chief Frederick Porter who said that the parking violations crackdown on Leigh Avenue and Alexander Road appeared successful.

COUPLE CRITICALEY HURT

In Pretty Brook Road Crash A Hopewell couple was admitted to Princeton Medical Center in critical condition early Sunday morning, after their car failed to make a curve on Pretty Brook Road and struck two trees.

A spokesman for the Center said Tuesday that the condition of Thomas Knox, 26, 41 Columbia Street, Hopewell, and his wife, Pamela, 26, is still considered critical for both and they remain in the intensive care unit. Mr. Knox sustained a lung collapse, chest and facial injuries. His wife suffered a spinal injury and several fractures and contusions of the body. Police described their small car as a total loss.

According to Township police, the Knox car was rounding a sharp curve near the Matthey driveway around 2:30 in the morning when it crossed over the center line and continued on to the opposite shoulder of the road where it struck two large trees.

It struck the first tree with its left rear panel which caused the car to turn sideways. It then rammed the second tree with the right passenger side door. Sgt. Michael Kopiner, who responded to the scene, said that the car traveled 96 feet in the shoulder area. He was unable to interview the two victims and his investigation is pending.

Wiggins & Witherspoon Curley Gundry, 29, 15 Birch Avenue, was treated for multiple contusions of the back Thursday at the Medical Center, following a collision with another car at Witherspoon and Wiggins Streets.

Pd. William Hunter ticketed the other driver, Linda J. Eckhardt, 23, of Trenton, who was driving on Wiggins, with failure to observe a flashing red signal. The mishap occurred at 11:21 p.m. Police said that Miss Eckhardt told them she saw the blinking red light but assumed it was going to turn green for her and she proceeded into the intersection.

DIRECTORS CHOSEN By Flight Two, George Robertson has been selected as the new director, and Kathleen Haven chosen as the new co-director of Flight II, now entering its third year of operation in Princeton.

Mr. Robertson is a member of the Class of 1971 at Princeton, where his field was leadership and community affairs. He will assume the position of Director of Flight II in late August. Until that time, he will continue as the Leadership Development Director of the Boy Scouts Camp at Blairtown.

Ms. Raven, the new Co-Director, comes to Flight II with a background of economics and communication training from the University of California at Los Angeles. She will begin working with Flight II immediately, her first project will be "to stir up communication on the subjects of recreational and service activities, existing or proposed, in the Princeton area."

We want to sell you something we hope you never have to use.

It's the Xtinguisher.

Conceived by John Curran and designed by Steven Rogin who believe that even a fire extinguisher should be beautiful as well as functional.

Before the Xtinguisher, it seemed that all fire extinguishers were designed for boiler factories — not homes.

Statistics indicate that a large percentage of home fires begin in the kitchen. A fire extinguisher is a necessity.

Because today's kitchen is becoming a room for living, a fire extinguisher is ordinarily hidden in a drawer or closet or some other inaccessible place.

The Xtinguisher is as contemporary in design as the most modern appliance. You won't want to hide it.

It's at home anywhere in your home.

It puts out oil, grease and electrical fires and is guaranteed for five years.

Pull it from the wall, the top flies off and it's ready to use.

The Xtinguisher is beautiful, functional and attractively boxed. It's the perfect gift.

FISHING POLES STOLEN
 On Friday the 13th, Friday the 13th was an unlucky day for fisherman Russell Sluagie. Not a big one didn't get away but someone stole his two fishing poles and reels which he had left between 5 a.m. and 12 noon next to his garage door. Mr. Sluagie, who lives at 446 Nassau Street, valued the missing poles and reels at $140.

Robert M. Ushka of Trenton reported on Thursday the theft of his $40 wristwatch and wallet containing $5 from a locker in the gym area of the Princeton YMCA. Police said there was no sign of any forced entry.

Mrs. Anita Wallace, 36 Wiggins Street, last week went to the northeast corner of the Princeton Cemetery and using her purse as a pillow fell asleep against a tree for about 10 minutes.

When she awoke, she told police that her large plastic purse was missing. She told them that she had not seen nor heard anyone. She lost $15 cash and placed her total loss at $70.

"DOC" HUMES CHARGED
 With Marijuana Possession. Harold "Doc" Humes, 47, 11 Madison Street was arrested Monday afternoon in his second floor apartment and charged with possession of over 25 grams of marijuana and smoking a marijuana cigarette. Mr. Humes, who has a long history of drug arrests, was later released in his own recognizance.
 Ptl. Robert Mucciarilli and Ptl. Ronald Holliday initially visited his apartment at 10:50 Monday morning with warrant for his arrest for a probation violation. No one answered their knock but the two officers allegedly noticed marijuana butts lying about.

They came back to headquarters, obtained a search warrant, returned to the Madison Street address at 12:30 and found Humes sitting on his bed, allegedly smoking a marijuana cigarette.

LYTLE ST. MAN CHARGED
 With Ring Theft. John Miller, 19, 7 Lytle Street, had been charged by Borough police with the larceny of a $150 gold and amethyst ring last week from the Morigi gemstone jewelry shop, 199 Nassau Street.

According to police, Mr. Miller walked into the shop with two others and a clerk saw him allegedly shoplift the ring. He faces a hearing in Borough court on August 1.

POLICE DO NOT BENEFIT
 From Circus Ticket Sales. Princeton police report that tickets are being sold in the area for the Miller Johnson Circus to be held in Trenton July 30-31 and, allegedly, in some instances, the buyers have been told the proceeds will benefit the Princeton police.

Actually, says a spokesman for the Township police the tickets are being sold by members of the PBA 197 Mercer County Sheriffs Association and proceeds will benefit that organization only. PBA 130 comprised of the Borough, Township and West Windsor police does not benefit.

Township police also report receiving complaints from residents in the past few weeks reporting being approached by solicitors claiming to do general repair work.
 In most instances, police say, residents have given money in advance for the repair of sidewalks, driveways and so on only to report the promised work is neither started or finished.

Anyone soliciting door to door must have a permit, police advise, issued by the clerk's office.

THREE ARE FINED
 For Careless Driving. Three Princeton residents were fined $15 each last week in Township Court for careless driving.

Acting magistrate Glen B. Miller Jr. imposed the fines on Douglas Epps, 84, 179 Birch Avenue; Theodore P. Stauffer, 17, 192 Brookstone Drive; and Edward J. Moyer, 65, 57 Mo-can Avenue. Also fined $15 each were Ruth J. Tattersall, 75, 50 Lafayette Road, stop sign, and Elizabeth A. Drat field, 25, 181 Harrison Street, passing a stoped school bus.

In Borough court Monday, newly-appointed Judge Philip Carchman fined Chih Chin Cheng of Princeton Junction $25 for careless driving, and Mary J. O'Mara, 55, Box 1,000 Princeton, $25 for speeding.

HARRISON PARK FIRST
In Playground Olympics. The annual Princeton Playground Junior Olympics tournament held Friday at the Princeton High School field boiled down to a contest between the Harrison Street and High School playgrounds. Harrison triumphed, 76 to 62. Hamilton was a distant third with 26 points.

Others were Johnson Park, 24, Community Park, 23; Erdman, 15, Riverside, 13; Grover, 6; Littlebrook, 5; Marquand, 2 and Pine Street, 0. Several hundred participated with winners advancing to the state junior olympics to be held Wednesday at JFK High School in Kellen.

The most outstanding performance was that of Michele Broadway who won the 50-yard dash for girls 11 and under in 6.5 seconds. She is defending state champion in the event. "That is outstanding time for a girl," commented Robert Sinkler, playground supervisor.

ORDINANCE IS ENFORCED
Banning No Parking. As dozens of motorists have discovered, Township police are enforcing a recently-passed ordinance banning parking on the south side of Basin Street and both sides of lower Alexander Street from West Drive to a point 1100 feet to the north.

The streets are near the Rusty Scupper restaurant which has generated parking problems since its opening a few months ago.

"Basin Street is a narrow street. There just isn't room for parking on both sides," commented Chief Frederick Porter.

One Township woman who received a parking summons June 23 for ignoring the ban on Basin Street thought she had been illegally ticketed when, after checking, she had been assured by a spokesman at the state's Department of Transportation that the Township had no legal right to collect parking fines until July 5, the day the parking ordinance was formally approved by the DOT.

Not so, countered Chief Porter. He explained that the police had operated under an emergency interim resolution that legally authorized the issuance of tickets for a 90-day period.

The ordinance banning parking on Basin and Alexander streets was adopted by Township Committee June 4. However, on May 21, Chief Porter and Sgt. Anthony Nini, the Township's traffic officer, had obtained from Committee the drafted emergency resolution.

On May 30, the Township received word from the Department of Transportation that its 90-day emergency resolution had been approved — contingent on the erection of proper signs. In addition, Committee had to adopt the parking ordinance and have it approved by the DOT within the 90 days.

The no parking signs were erected June 1. At 2:35 the same day, Chief Porter informed all his patrols that the signs were up and were to be enforced.

TRIP IS PLANNED

To Adirondacks in Fall. Following a successful — and over-subscribed — sightseeing and cultural trip to Washington's Crossing and Philadelphia July 12, retired persons in Princeton, Cranbury, Hope, well and surrounding areas are planning another outing in the fall.

On the drawing board is a two- or three-day trip to view the fall foliage in Massachusetts and the Lake George region of the Adirondacks. Historical and cultural sites, such as West Point, Hyde Park, Saratoga, and Fort Ticonderoga would be included in the itinerary.

The estimated cost is $20 per day, including bus fare and all meals and lodging. The date of the trip has not yet been specified; the planners want to make the excursion at the time of the most brilliant autumn colors.

Because the Philadelphia trip was overlooked, the planners of the fall outing are seeking an indication of those interested in participating.

Retired persons should contact the YMCA, their church committee or retired persons, or Reeves Black, at 795-1082.

New Fund Director Looks Ahead to Campaign

Four weeks ago, when the Rev. George T. Peters began his duties as executive director of the Princeton Area United Community Fund, he inherited an organization which had failed to reach its goal three years running and—perhaps an omen—had just seen its basement offices flooded and a portion of its files waterlogged.

From all appearances the disrupted filing system has caused Mr. Peters more discomfort than the missed goals. "Sure, last year we had a stated goal of $612,000, and we raised $588,000. That's $24,000 short, but to characterize that as a failure is ridiculous," he said.

"The important thing is that 19 member agencies and the Red Cross are still doing their jobs," Mr. Peters said. "We need to emphasize the needs of these agencies in the Princeton area, and appeal to people to make a gift out of a sense of community responsibility, instead of emphasizing the total dollar volume."

Mr. Peters produced figures for other years: 1971—a goal of $619,000, $546,000 raised; 1970—Goal $635,000, $574,000 raised.

Goal a Compromise. This year, after the usual budget haggling that reduces agency stated needs to something resembling a realistic goal, the United Fund has announced a target of $635,000, an amount that has never been raised, but still far short of the $763,000 that the agencies said they needed for next year.

"So a goal is really just a compromise anyhow," said Mr. Peters. "Anything over that will not be a surplus for these agencies." These groups range from the Florence Crittenton Home to the Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts to the Somerset Valley Visiting Nurse Program.

"And the actual dollar total doesn't mean that much to the average guy. For him $635,000 might as well be $635 million. He knows what he can give in either case," the new director said.

"We've got to emphasize that his gift can help make or break these member agencies," Mr. Peters began fishing through desk drawers, in his sparsely furnished office.

Quick Move. The United Community Fund files had been rather quickly moved from the old office at 454 Truitt Road on June 21, when one of the staff workers discovered eight inches of water on the floor as a result of that first day of summer downpour.

Now, in the new offices on the second floor of the Houghton building at 221 Witherspoon Street, Mr. Peters said, "We're still trying to get these files together." Finally he extracted a sheet of paper.

"Those are the agencies," he said. "That's what we have to emphasize."

Mr. Peters is at once an optimist and a realist, a split personality that is practically a job requirement these days for the manager of a fund-raising campaign. And he may actually have some reason to believe that the goal this year can be reached despite his professed emphasis on other matters.

Basketball Benefit. First, a new enthusiasm is likely to accompany the arrival of any new head man in a volunteer agency of this sort. Leslie Vivian, president of the 1973 fund, says he can feel it already. More tangible will be the results of a shot in the arm the fund will get September 25, in advance of its traditional October campaign. On that day the New York Knicks will play the Atlanta Hawks in a NBA exhibition game in Jadwin Gymnasium, and the University will share the proceeds with the United Fund.

"That should help us in terms of publicity and dollars," Mr. Peters said of the University's largesse, which is actually motivated by its desire to maintain the tax-exempt status of Jadwin and still use it for occasional fund-raising activities of its own.

And also the fund may benefit from Mr. Peters's own youthful energy and sense of matter-of-fact directness, both of which are abundant in quantities one would not expect from a 58-year-old minister.

Church Experience. In fact Mr. Peters does look younger than his years, and his experience in church work since he graduated from the Princeton Theological Seminary in 1940 may be ideal preparation for working with large groups of volunteers such as those comprising the United Fund.

For 25 years he was the pastor of four different congregations, each of which had its various fund-raising campaigns to wage. By his own estimate his churches raised more than $2.5 million for program and capital improvements.

For the past seven years he was based at the New York headquarters of the United Presbyterian Church-U.S.A., where he was in charge of instructing ministers in new methodologies in worship and programs to help attract new members to the congregation.

"If churches are to be attractive in their communities they are going to have to keep up with the changing expectations of their congregations," Mr. Peters said of his church work, which might also be said of the United Fund.

An Evangelistic Bent? Mr. Peters's title in New York had the word "evangelism" in it, but he prefers not to use it. Evangelism has become a turn-of-word, or perhaps more a turn-of-mind, he said.

Nonetheless, a little evangelism may be what the United Fund workers get from their new director. One of my earliest frustrations is trying to get decisions made quickly, and then realizing that the people I'm working with all have their regular jobs to contend with as well," he said.

"I seem doomed to a life of working with volunteers," Mr. Peters's direction of the fund is likely to vary in style from either of his recent predecessors, though perhaps not so much in substance.

Spend More Money? "Refined Methodologies, but probably not new techniques," he said of the possible changes he might make in fund-raising strategies. No final decisions on specific alterations will be made before Mr. Peters has a chance to meet further with the fund's executive committee. Possible directions may be waging a more intensive campaign at those people in the local communities who cannot be reached at a place of employment. Or, as Mr. Vivian pointed out, possibly spending more money in the campaign.

Professional fund raisers estimate that 15 percent of the money raised is a fair amount that could be spent raising it. The Princeton Area United Fund, with its barren offices and skeleton staff of three full-time paid workers and three more part-time, has stuck to about 11 percent, roughly the same as the national average for United Funds.

Whether or not the fund should increase expenditures in hopes of significantly increasing the yield is something to be discussed.

Training Sessions. Questions of fund-raising strategies such as these are ones that Mr. Peters will likely consider in several visits he will make to the Alexandria, Va., headquarters of the United Way of America, the national organization for United Funds.

He will try to spend far more of his time, he said, visiting all the local agencies supported by the fund. "I'm afraid we haven't spent enough time talking about the agencies," he said.

"Any one the spot visit of these organizations very quickly tells you there's an important job being done that is very much needed and that it's being done on a shoe-string," Mr. Peters said. "These groups deserve much more support than the community gives them."

In his first week on the job he has visited the Hightstown Day Care Center, "they work a 10-hour day so that women can go to work," the Family Service Agency, the Youth Center, the Princeton YMCA, and YWCA and the Council of Community Service.

Protective Shield. "The best assurance of success," Mr. Peters said, "would be if we could somehow take every potential donor around to every one of these 19 agencies." But would fund-raising this year be especially difficult?

"Sure, every year some factor makes it seem that this year will be tougher than others," Mr. Peters replied. "Inflation, the wobbly stock market, cost of living increases. But the wage level has increased also."

"This kind of thinking, he said, "is just a protective shield keeping people from recognizing the real needs in the community."

By New Group. Beginning on Tuesday July 31, a new Princeton committee, "Summermoon Music" will hold a series of free outdoor concerts on Poe Field. Well-known Princeton and surrounding area musicians will perform. Because of the lack of funds, donations at the concerts would be greatly appreciated. The time of the concert and the names of the musicians playing will be announced later.

ETS SEEKS INFANTS
For Study. The Infant Laboratory of Educational Testing Service is seeking infants 3 to 24 months old to take part in a study on the development of play and recognition of objects.

Dr. Michael Lewis, director of the laboratory, said that infants in the study will be brought to ETS by their parent for one 45-minute visit. Psychologists at the laboratory will observe the infants' reactions to toys. After the study is completed, parents will be informed of the results of the observations.

Babysitting will be provided at the laboratory, if necessary. Parents who would like to have their babies participate in the study may contact the Infant Laboratory at 921-9000, ext. 2581.

News Of The THEATRES

PINTER
"The Birthday Party" Harold Pinter's first full-length play will open this Thursday at 8:30 p.m. in Murray Theatre as Summer Intime's second play of the summer season.

It will be given again this Friday and Saturday at 8:30, Sunday at 7:30 and next week end under the same schedule. Reservations may be made at 452-8181.

The play was written in 1958 and its first reviews in London unanimously predicted that Pinter would have a great career. "The Birthday Party" tells the story of a young man named Stanley and the two members of an organization, who come to his seedy boarding house to look for him.

To direct Summer Intime has imported Nancy Swartzell, associate professor of education theatre at New York University. She has taught two courses in styles of acting at NYU's graduate center in San Juan, Puerto Rico and, appropriately enough, guided a student whose thesis was on the direction of a Pinter play.

THREE, IN REVIVAL
Films, at Intime. Three more films are lined up waiting for Summer Intime's audience of movie buffs. All will be shown at 7:30 in the air-conditioned McCormick Art Museum.

"The Crime of Monsieur Lange," regarded by some critics as the greatest of director Jean Renoir's films. Into this film, says M. Renoir, he has put some of the dreams and longings of the young printer and the young landress. Monday, July 23.

"All the King's Men," adapted from Robert Penn Warren's novel, based on the career of Huey Long. Brockrick Crawford and Mercedes McCambridge both won Oscars, Tuesday, July 24.

"PICNIC" IN BUCKS

Inge Play in New Hope. "Picnic," the Pulitzer - prize winning play by the late William Inge, has just opened at the Bucks County Playhouse in New Hope. It will play through Sunday, July 29.

Steve James, Princeton University student who will be president next year of Triangle Club, plays the leading role. As a minimum - bright college football player, he arrives in a small Kansas town and causes complications in the lives of women who succumb to his rugged virility.

Inge wrote "Picnic" after his first successful play, "Come Back, Little Sheba." "Picnic" was a Broadway hit in 1953, featuring an unknown actor named Paul Newman. Inge was also the author of "Bus Stop," "The Dark at the Top of the Stairs" and a film, "Bus Riley is Back in Town." His last work, "Overnight," had been scheduled for March production at the Playhouse but was cancelled because of the author's failing health.

"Picnic" performances are at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday through Saturdays, 6 p.m. Sundays and 2 p.m. Wednesdays and Saturdays.

...for Monday, Tuesday and Thursday nights. Anyone of high school or college age may audition.

Meanwhile, the Repertory Theatre Company is getting ready to present "Night Must Fall," a suspense thriller due to play Friday and Saturday, July 27 and 28 in the band room of Princeton High.

George Washington Slept Here" presents a family living in an old Bucks County farmhouse whose history may be deduced from the title of the play. There is a big cast and a lot of laugh lines. The theatre company hopes technical people as well as actors, will show up for auditions.

Current members of the technical cast include Kevin Colman, stage manager, and Corinne Colman, props. Steve ven Kalines is in charge of a set construction crew consisting of Barbara Bayern, Walter Bruner, Liz Fischer, Lee Kahn, Robyn Mager and Dick Warren. Robert Little designed the set. Liz Fischer has been in charge of designing and executing posters and programs.

NEXT AT OPEN AIR

Marriage of Figaro. The lovely music of Mozart's comic opera "The Marriage of Figaro" will resound through the Open Air Theatre in Washington Crossing State Park, where the opera, in English, will be presented on July 20, 21, 27 and 28. Curtain time will be 8:30.

The story concerns the approaching marriage of Figaro and Susanna. The latter feels she must warn Figaro that their master, the Count, intends to reinstate the ancient custom of spending the wedding night with the young bride. Figaro promises to outwit the Count, unaware that the housekeeper, Marcellina, hopes to force him to marry her.

The lovely Countess Rosina, saddened by her husband's intrigues, and longing to restore the happiness of their early years, enters into a conspiracy designed to shame the count into repentance. It contains some marvelously funny scenes, with all ending happily, to some of the most sublime music ever written.

Clyde Tipton appears as Figaro, and Joan Margules and Sonda Van Sant alternate in the role of Susanna. The Count is portrayed by Richard Estes, of Washington, D.C., where he is currently singing with the U.S. Air Force Singing Sergeants. He recently was seen in NET's production of "The Old Maid And The Thief."

Allena Blood and Virginia Cook Bachalis alternate in the role of Countess Rosina. Other roles are: Barbarina, Vickie Casey; Antonio, Ron Hawfinger; Marcellina, Virginia Cole; and Cherubino, played alternately by Marthe Rowen and Cheryl Chang.

Staging will be by Ed Earle and Igor Chichagov with conduct.

SINGERS, ACTORS NEEDED
For Open Air Production. Auditions for singers and actors to appear in "The Way It Was" — America 1620-1800, will be held on Sunday, July 22, between 2 and 4 p.m. and on Monday, July 23, from 7 to 9 p.m., at Bray Hall on the Trenton State College campus. The production, a historical musical cantata, will be directed by Dr. Gordon Myers.

For Street Theatre. The first production of the summer sesson for Street Theatre will open this Thursday at 8:30 p.m. on the lawn in front of Princeton High School.

It's a trio of one-act plays,
with Lord Dunsany's "The Jest

FOR STREET THEATRE: One of the short plays to be given this weekend by Street Theatre is "Another Way Out," a satire on living together. In this scene are phil O'Dona-of Hahalaba" as the opener.

Noel Coward's comedy,
"Hands Across the Sea" is the second play of the evening and Lawrence Langner's "Another Way Out" is the third.

The plays will be given again this Saturday on the front lawn at Riverside School and this Sunday on Palmer Square, behind the tiger.

For its performance this Friday, Street Theatre will travel to West Windsor for a show at 8:30 p.m. in Van Nest Park.

In the "Jest of Hahalaba," director Jon Negus has a cast consisting of John Wible, John Kenne, Geoff Becker, and Rip Pellaton. In the Coward comedy are Kitty Brown, John Turitzin, Kathy Hilst, Dale
Hamilton, Chris Brown, Cathy
Oates, Nat Kuhn, Gabrielle Levine and Geoff Becker, who is directing.

In the Langner play, the director is Louise Arnold and the cast is Katherine Barry, Phil O'Donahue, Rip Pellaton, Diane Barry and Louise Arnold.

GARDEN

Money, Money, Money is a pleasant and relaxing outing
by French director Claude Le-louch about five petty crooks down on their luck. What to do? The answer is to go "modern" and the results make this one of the more amusing and amoral caper films in quite some time.

The recent is not so much on one big caper as it is on one deft assignment after another. Thanks to some tutoring from some mutual friends, including a Buddhist monk, a liberated prostitute and a Salvation Army official, the five
— Charlot, Simon, Aldo, Jacques and Lino transform themselves into a service that can take care of any type hanky-panky.

Should a falling pop idol need a little kidnapping for publicity's sake or should a statesman need to be partially assassinated for security's sake, they now know where to go. Lelouch has also loaded his film with humor, including a discourse on the various ways to suck spaghetti and the best moment of all when the five attempt to impress some bathing beauties
by adopting a particularly sexy walk.

The cast are mostly vel-etans and the whole thing is served up in a lazy, unpreten-tious style. The end, this time, is just right. Rated R with subtleties.

PRINCE

Jesus Christ Superstar. A hip, contemporary rock opera that brings the reverent, Biblical Jesus Christ down from the stained glass windows.

Fundamentalists may be jarred at seeing crowds wearing long hair, blue jeans and T shirts, but the film has been embraced by the young people as one that speaks in their idiom. The rock opera itself is a mixture of musical styles,
pop culture and religion.

Toni Neeley, who had played Jesus in Broadway and Los Angeles stage productions, stars in the title role. Carl Anderson is Judas; Yvonne Elliman, Mary Magdalen;
and Barry Dennen, Pontius Pilate.

PLAYHOUSE

The Sound of Music. Julie Andrews and Christopher Plummer star in Sound of Music, which, since its release in March, 1965 has become one of the most profitable and most popular musicals of all time.

LYING DOWN ON THE JOB: Ron Choquette relaxes on a bright yellow sleep sofa from Sweden, part of a new line of tubular furniture at the Workbench on State Road.

IT'S NEW
To Us

FURNITURE THOUGHTS
From The Workbench. There is a new line of soft, comfortable and colorful furniture at the Workbench, 55 State Road. Made in Sweden, the "Stuns" collection, has tubular steel lacquered frames and light weight plush cushions.

The line includes a bright yellow sleep sofa (see picture) $250, a lounge chair with orange & white cushions, $39.50; a dining chair in yellow or brown canvas, $29.50, and a butcher block table with yellow or brown lacquered saw horse legs, $100.

One of the most spectacular items in the store is the stereo music center. This multi-compartmented piece of furniture can be expanded any where from 63 to 120 inches, and because it comes in two sections, it can be used along one wall or as a corner unit.

There is a spot for a stereo system, cassette recorder, TV, tapes and records, and when expanded there is a shelf which can also be used for extra seating space. This marvelous unit is available in a white lacquered finish, teak or rosewood, beginning at $255.

Natural Woods Popular. Ron Choquette, Workbench's manager, told us that recently the natural woods, such as the oak and maple used in butcher block tables, have been very popular. The store does not carry unfinished furniture, and these tables have all been double-sanded and then protected with a clear acrylic finish.

These butcher block tops come in many sizes, and can be placed on any of four bases. A 36-inch round top on a chrome base costs $120. There is also a parquet butcher block table made from solid strips of birch that has two leaves, which extend the table to 88 inches, $149.50.

If you always seem in need of extra chairs the Workbench has a handsome folding plexiglass chair in amber, white, blue or brown, with a chrome frame, $35. Four of these chairs hung on a special rack are only 7 and one-half inches deep, so they easily fit in a closet or behind a door.

For those who live in a studio apartment or for the teenager who no longer wants a bedroom, there is a sofa-bed with its own large storage drawer that easily holds all the necessary blankets and bedding. This teak sofa-bed comes with a mattress and three tufted pillows, beginning at $147.50 uncovered. In an orange plaid virgin wool fabric, it is $212.

Children's Workbench. The Children's Workbench is located in the same store, and here we saw a teak desk to match the sofa-bed. This full-size desk has four drawers and at only $89.50 Ron Choquette feels it is an exceptional value.

The all-in-one desk can be suited to any left- or right-handed child. From age seven up. Made in Sweden of polished pine with top and sides of blue linoleum, it has three drawers, an adjustable writing table that attaches to either side, and a two-shell removable bookcase, $139.50.

The furniture at the Children's workbench has gradually been moving away from colors and toward more neutral tones such as white. In this way the accessories can easily change the tone of a room.

while the furniture goes on. From Poland there is a line of chests and desk tops that are all coordinated so they can be grouped however you wish. In addition the prices are extremely reasonable. A four-drawer chest is $55, a two-door cabinet with four shelves, $80, and a desk top $30.

However color does still exist. For instance, there is a Danish swivel chair that is adjustable to grow with a child. It comes in blue, green, red or yellow in addition to white and black, $49.50.

The Workbench and Children's Workbench are open Monday to Saturday from 10 until 5 during the summer. When September comes around, the store will remain open until 6.

AS BIKING GROWS

So Does Tiger Auto's Business. Late last winter Tiger Auto Supplies, Inc. gave itself a new name — Tiger Auto and Cycle Center, and this clearly reflects a direction the business has taken in the past few years.

Throughout the country, biking has been daily gaining in popularity and Princeton is very much a part of this trend. Tiger Auto and Cycle Center specializes in bikes by Britain's Raleigh Company, the largest and one of the oldest manufacturers of bikes.

The store is one of the biggest Raleigh dealers in the state, and Jay Mironov told us that last year they sold 1,500 Raleigh bikes (plus 500 various other bikes). On a beautiful Saturday in April or May, he said that it is not unusual for them to sell 20 to 30 bikes.

Currently, women are buying 3-speed bikes while the men are preferring the 10-speed better bikes that cost $135 and up. Tiger Auto and Cycle Center carries a basic three-speed Raleigh bike for $71.95, but they prefer recommending the top-rated deluxe model of the same bike. It is an additional $10, but has a better seat, tires, and rims, and comes with a pump and bag. It also comes in a wide range of colors — blue, green, ivory glaze, coffee, platinum and black.

In addition to this basic bike, the store has the full Raleigh line which includes racing bikes with 10 speeds and dropped handle bars, children's bikes with a coaster brake, and even a bike that folds in half.

All bikes are fully assembled and directly warranted by Tiger Auto and Cycle Center. This warranty is for one year on all internal parts and 60 days on the external parts, and includes a 6-week free service check-up. The repair shop is on the premises and last year 4,000 bikes passed through its doors.

New Art Gallery Opens on Alexander Street

A wide variety of artistic works are featured at a new art gallery which opened its doors earlier this month at 306 Alexander Street.

The Loft Art Gallery, run by owner-artist Conrad Newman, has two rooms, one for paintings, the other filled with unique crafts and jewelry. Presently on display are oils by Mr. Newman and drawings by Marsha Kleinman. Other exhibiting artists are Yvonne Aronson, Polly French, Jim Gary, Judith Ingles, Charles Kummick, Judy Levy, Carol Lummis, Doris Newman, Sandy Scully and Jan Voytko.

Mr. Newman is well known in the Princeton area for his oil paintings and has done commissioned works for many independent collectors. He has exhibited widely throughout the northeastern

United States. He will be associated with his brother, Craig, who has studied art in New Mexico, and is also a talented craftsman. The brothers will also be working together to offer a complete graphic art service to local industries.

Included in the crafts room are ceramics, macramés, bean bags, small metal sculpture, bronze castings, sand castings, woodcut prints, batiks and needle points. Some of the jewelry is imported from Spain. Other silver and gold pendants, bracelets and rings are crafted locally.

The Loft Gallery had its official opening July 8. Gallery hours are 9 to 5 Tuesday to Saturday, evening hours by appointment. Easy parking is available and the Newmans encourage browsing.

Bike accessories are also important and several new items are available. There is a bike carrier for the trunk of a car that holds two bikes, $15.99, and a new puncture-resistant tire tube by Raleigh, $4. Then there are speedometers, bike pumps, baby seats that the store double bolts to the frame of your bike, and every imaginable sized basket.

In addition to the bikes, Tiger Auto and Cycle Center continues to carry a wide variety of sporting and fishing equipment, auto supplies, small appliances and many garden and household items.

Located at 24-26 Witherspoon Street, the store's hours are varied. Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday it is open from 9 to 6; Wednesday from 9 to 1; and Saturday from 8:30 to 5:30.

TAX BURDEN EASED

By Revenue Sharing Funds.

The extent to which New Jersey local property tax payers have benefited from the availability of Federal revenue sharing funds this year is revealed in a property tax study released by the New Jersey State Chamber of Commerce.

The Chamber's annual study shows that while total property taxes for 1973 again hit a new high of $2.58 billions, the increase this year was $143 million (5.9%) as contrasted to last year's increase of $218 million (9.8%) over 1971, despite steep inflation and higher spending in most jurisdictions. The effects of the new Federal money is most evident at the municipal government level where the statewide municipal purpose tax levy this year is up only $676,873 as contrasted to last year's increase over 1971 of $58.6 million. The effects are also evident in the 1973 aggregate county tax levy which is up $27.6 million as compared to last year's gain of $42.8 million.

The Chamber labeled this dramatic slowing of property tax growth in 1973 as "temorary", reminiscent of the situation in 1966 when $63 million in funds from the then new sales tax were applied to slow down for one year the growth of the school tax.

ARMED ROBBER FLUSHED

In Car Check Here. A Los Angeles man wanted for two armed robberies in California was arrested here last week by Borough police. Dwight Harrison, 25, after being identified by an FBI agent, was released to the FBI.

He was arrested last week after local patrolman Ronald Holliday had observed a car with California plates driving around town with several Princeton youths inside. The car was stopped on University Place by Borough police. At the time, Harrison had no identification and gave police a fictitious name.

An NCIC check revealed that the owner of the car, Dwight Harrison, was wanted for two robberies. The car was later located again parked on Clay Street by police who waited until the driver appeared and then arrested Harrison.

YOUNG FIRE BUG NABBED

Sent to Center. A 12-year-old Princeton youth, who police say admitted setting a fire behind a building at 221 Witherspoon Street Saturday, has been sent to the Youth Center in Trenton, Borough police say the youth has been charged with setting fires in the past.

According to police, a resident of Witherspoon Lane had noticed the youth acting in a suspicious manner and later saw him looking at the rear of the WHW building at 221 Witherspoon from behind a tree. Soon after, the resident smelled smoke and discovered that a pile of trash behind the building was burning. The flames spread to a wooden split fence, police said.

The youth was identified by the resident. He was later picked up by Det. Douglas Watson, the Borough juvenile officer.

SECOND SESSION SET

For YMCA. The second summer session at the YMCA will begin the week of July 23. There are still some openings in some of the scheduled programs.

Gymnastics for boys first through eighth grade will meet on Mondays and Wednesdays from 3-4:15 p.m. During the eight classes the boys will receive an introduction to all types of gymnastic equipment. For those who have learned the basics, beginning routines will be taught.

Boys swim instruction will be offered on Tuesday and Thursday from 9-9:45 a.m. The YMCA offers six levels of swimming from beginner through advanced swimming.

Openings still exist for high school boys and men's judo and karate. Judo meets on Mondays and Wednesdays from 7:30 to 9 p.m. and karate meets on Tuesday and Thursday from 7:30 to 9 p.m. Both judo and karate offer instruction for the beginner through the more advanced student.

For more information about any YMCA program call the YMCA at 924-4925.

GAME SWAP PLANNED

By Public Library. On Thursday, July 26 at 3 p.m. there will be a Game Swap at the Princeton Public Library. Children ages six and up are invited to bring games and puzzles which they have enjoyed for exchange with friends.

Games must be boxed, in good condition with no missing parts. This will be an opportunity to play and learn a variety of games. Registration, limited to twenty, is at the children's desk.

Choir Money Well Spent.
To the Editor of Town Topics: Yesterday we enjoyed a superb musical treat in St. Stephens, the main cathedral here in Vienna.

It was the afternoon concert of the Princeton High School choir, which sang at the peak of its abilities. The cathedral was almost full and the audience extremely attentive.

Any member of the Princeton community, particularly anyone who contributed to the fund raising efforts, would have been moved by this occasion.

We all owe thanks to these fine young people, their directors — William Trego and Nancianne Parrella, and the supporting school officials.

Harry Brook Plan Opposed

To the Editor of Town Topics: Plans to enclose and fill a 50-foot section of Harry's Brook in the Queenston condominium project, as well as for an alternative retaining wall, have been filed by the builders for approval by the State Department of Environmental Protection.

Concerned by the prospect of further erosion and flooding and the loss of trees and the attractive view of the brook, property-owners along the brook and local environmental groups have requested a public hearing before the Department's Water Policy and Supply Council on the alternatives open to them.

In a recent letter to the Friends of the Princeton Environment, the Department's Stream Encroachment Section, which is responsible for reviewing the applications, reports that it will hold the file until August 1 to receive comments before turning it over to the Water Policy and Supply Council for final decision. The Friends urge property-owners downstream to make known their views to the Council and municipal officials.

News Of The CHURCHES

UNION THEME STRESSED

At Chambers Street Service. When the Rev. Dr. William L. Tucker, minister emeritus of the former St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, was called on to lead this Sunday's summer union service at the Chambers Street building, he planned a program that would live up to the title.

Participants in the 10 a.m. service will be Joanne Stratton of the senior youth group at Nassau Presbyterian, who will read the scripture lessons; John Counts, an elder of the Witherspoon Street Presbyterian Church, who will conduct the service; and Dr. Tucker, who will preach on the subject, "Beyond Pity and Compassion."

"This will be a real union," he said. "Joanne is 17, I'm 84. John Counts is black, I'm white. And we all used to represent the three separate Presbyterian congregations in town."

Dr. Tucker retired in 1957 from his fulltime duties as pastor of St. Andrew's, which then was called Second Presbyterian Church.

This year marks the 100th anniversary of union services, according to Dr. Tucker. "In 1873, when the Second Church building was completed, First Church came over and worshipped there for five months, while work was being done on its sanctuary," he said.

Dr. Tucker will also lead an open air union service at 8:30 a.m. in the Princeton Cemetery near the Cleveland Mausoleum, which can be reached through the gate opposite the Witherspoon Street Presbyterian Church.

NAACP TALKS ATTENDED

By Central Jersey Branch. Five members of the Central Jersey Branch of the NAACP headquartered at the Witherspoon Street Presbyterian Church, recently participated in the 64th annual convention of the NAACP in Indianapolis, Indiana.

The delegates from this area included Mrs. Grace Wilson of Monmouth Junction, president of the Central Jersey Branch; Mrs. Emily Thompson of Kingston; Lawrence McGinn of Princeton, education chairman; McCrae Bussey of Cranbury, life membership chairman; and the Rev. Floyd Rhodes, church work chairman and pastor of the Witherspoon Street Presbyterian Church.

They were among 2,500 delegates who met from July 2-6. The theme of the convention was "Let Us Forget Our Fallen Heroes."

In a concluding speech, Mrs. Medgar Evers, widow of the assassinated civil rights leader, discussed the need for the NAACP to extend itself in all areas of the civil rights struggle. She stated that more could be done to honor her slain husband's memory.

Other speakers included Benjamin Hooks of the Federal Communications Commission and Andrew Young, Congressman from Georgia. Mrs. Wilson and the Central Jersey Branch have urged that residents interested in civil rights join the chapter. "The NAACP is the oldest, strongest and most successful civil rights organization in the country," she said. "It is integrated. In fact, the president in its 64-year history has always been white."

MUSIC PROGRAM SET

By Westerly Road Church. A program of guitar music and Christian songs will be presented by a team of French young people this Friday evening, at 7 p.m. at the Westerly Road Church.

The group is traveling on the east coast during the month of July and is headed by Rev. Ronald Fisher, a graduate of Princeton University in the class of 1960, now serving as a missionary in Grenoble, France.

Following the service the team will conduct an open-air meeting at the Princeton Shopping Center, in the vicinity of the Dairy Queen, where they will again sing and play and tell of their Christian faith. The public is invited.

Westerly Road Church has sent 19 young people abroad on similar programs this summer. They have been assisting missionaries in Quebec, Mexico, France, Germany, and the Dominican Republic.

SUNDAY SOCIALS SET

For All Migrant Workers. For the fourth consecutive year, area migrant farm workers and their families will be able to participate in social and recreational activities away from their camps.

The Family Service Agency of Princeton, the YM-YWCA and the Princeton Interfaith Council will sponsor six socials, on three Sundays in August and September, at the YMCA facilities.

Migrants will be able to participate in swimming and other athletic activities made possible by the "Y," as well as take part in planned program activity not provided in previous years, including arts and crafts, sewing and a nursery school program.

Volunteers are needed to assist in the program activities, and help provide transportation and food preparation. They may call Sandy Stoddard or George Holmes at the YM-YWCA Phone: 924-1825.

Dates of the socials are August 5, 12 and 19, and September 9, 16 and 24.

Church groups that are participating include Kingston Presbyterian Church, the Witherspoon Street Presbyterian Church, the Jewish Center of Princeton, the Christ Congregational Church, Prince of Peace Lutheran Church, St. Paul's Roman Catholic Church, Princeton United Methodist Church, Nassau Presbyterian Church, Messiah Lutheran Church, Quaker Princeton Friends, Trinity Episcopal Church and the Unitarian Church of Princeton.

BULLETIN NOTES

The Bluechurch Reformed Church will hold its Harvest Home Festival Saturday, August 4, with a barbecued chicken dinner served from 1-4 p.m. The festival will also include a farmer's market, pony ride, handicrafts, coconut stand and pine shop. Dinner reservations may be made by calling Mrs. Albert Van Zandt, 466-3693, or Mrs. Enos Parsell, 466-3442.

The Rev. Dr. Herbert Anderson, professor of pastoral theology at the Princeton Theological Seminary and vice pastor of the Prince of Peace Lutheran Church, will lead that church's informal summer worship service Sunday at 9:30 a.m. in the Maurice Hawk School, Clarksville Rd., Princeton Junction. Dr. Anderson formerly served churches in California and New Jersey and was a chaplain at Mowanda State Hospital and Rikuis Island Penitentiary.

She Gives us Nightmusik, Under the Stars

Bring a blanket, the kids and grandma. Last time, it was a brass quartet with a perfectly splendid tuba. This time—yes, Thursday, July 26—it will be Princeton musicians with a flute serenade to float softly into the summer night.

Outdoor concerts at the University's Graduate College have been drawing almost 900 people this summer. Two have already been held, and next week's will be the last. It's the second consecutive summer, but the third in actuality because the first concerts were held in 1968.

I have chamber music. Barbara Sand's reply, explaining why she thought up the concerts five years ago. "In the winter you can glut yourself on music in Princeton, but in summer, you starve. I decided I couldn't possibly be the only one who misses music," so I wrote to President Gohren at the University and suggested the free outdoor concerts.

Dr. Gohren thought it was a fine idea. But other people laughed: the old wheeze that Princeton is "dead" in summer days hard. Who would "come" people shrugged when Mrs. Sand made her suggestion.

Tutti. The answer turns out to be "everybody." Students, of course, attracted by the free admission. Families with little children, older people who bring folding chairs instead of blankets, couples, people who live in Princeton, people who live elsewhere.

Possibly, even people who didn't think they liked chamber music until they heard the Tokyo String Quartet or that splendid brass ensemble.

The concerts are quite literally a one woman job. Mrs. Sand acts as fund-raiser for the $3,500 budget, (the musicians are a ways professional's expenses, a particular gratitude to Sand, who was most generous this year, and to RCA which has helped support the concerts for two summers in a row.

SEVERAL STRINGS TO HER BOW: Although she prefers to be identified as a bow-re-stringer, Barbara Sand is a cellist and pianist, too. But she spends much of her time organizing and, along with about a thousand other Princeton residents, enjoying the free summer concerts at the Graduate College. Next one: July 26.

But many of the contributions are five-and-ten-dollar, from people who love the combination of fine music, a fine summer night, and the companionship and informality that characterize the concerts.

(Incidentally, because the University provides the Graduate College, contributions are made directly to the University and are tax-deductible.)

Sand? Superb. The music is made in the quadrangle of the Graduate College, which is surrounded on four sides by the stone walls of the College, but open to the sky. The hollow square holds 900 people just. Acoustics are unbelievable. "I've never heard myself so good," exclaimed the young tuba after the last concert.

"I spent a day with a couple of musicians, just walking the campus," Mrs. Sand says, "we hooted and blew and whistled, trying to find a place that was just right. We had hoped for the steps of the Woodrow Wilson School, the Yamasaki building there by the fountain. But the sound was too diffuse. We'd have needed a shell, and that would have been much too expensive."

Normally, a string quartet needs amplification, but the quadrangle is so sublime that nothing is required. It's good, in fact, no matter where you sit, and even the 800 or 900 bodies don't seem to make a difference.

Lighting is done by that lighting expert, Barbara Sand herself. She loads into her car one of her own living room lamps, which happens to be identical to a friend's living room lamp, also volunteered, so there are two lamps. Last year she took the Sand kitchen chairs for string quartets to sit on, but this year, the Graduate College has provided chairs.

Weather? Well, sometimes. Last year's concerts were bedeviled by rain, and pianist Richard Good was rained into Proctor Hall of the Graduate College. His audience followed.

"I start chewing my nails on Tuesday about weather," Mrs. Sand shudders happily, "but even hurricane weather doesn't seem to keep people away. We do have Proctor Hall, of course, if it's really bad."

The night of the brass quartet the audience simply pulled blankets (and even chairs!) over their heads, and went on listening.

"It's just an absolutely glowing feeling!" said one member of the audience, through the rain.

Coming Attraction. Next Thursday, the program will be given by a group of Princeton-based musicians. Originally, violinist Nadia Koutzen was to have played, but she is now concert master with the touring company of the Bolshoi Ballet, so her name is off the program.

Others who will perform are Geoffrey Michaels, resident violinist at Princeton University who also plays viola; Susan Chamberlain, viola player who teaches in the Princeton public school, and plays in the Trenton Symphony; cellist Peter Rosenfeld and his sister, Jayn Rosenfeld, a flautist whom audiences will remember as flute soloist with the Princeton Chamber Orchestra.

The program will consist of an early 19th-century Quartet for Flute and Strings by Franzisk Kromer; Max Reger's Serenade in G Major for flute, violin and viola, the Beethoven String Trio in C Minor and Albert Roussel's Trio for flute, Viola and Violoncello.

Afterwards, all the musicians will troop back to Mrs. Sand's house for supper.

"Yes, I feed them afterwards, always," she laughs, brushing aside a suggestion that this is, perhaps, why she prefers small chamber ensembles.

ments of students planning vocational, commercial, technical, and service careers.

This year's C.D.A. program has been expanded to include students from neighboring communities and is no longer limited to Princeton. Additionally, 1973 marks the first year that an area industry is sponsoring one of the awards, although neighboring firms have contributed to the overall program.

The 16 C.D.A. awardees, who are graduates of Montgomery High School, Princeton High School and Stuart Country Day School plan to enroll in one or two year educational programs leading to careers in nursing, automobile mechanics, fashion and interior design, data processing, secretarial science and business administration.

C.D.A. recipient John F. Harris, a Princeton High School graduate residing at 292 Witherspoon Street, who will study data processing at Mercer County Community College has been named the 1973 RCA Laboratories Fellow in the Program.

16 To Share $11,010. Last year C.D.A. awards totalling $7,160 were disbursed to some 15 recipients. This year's 16 awardees share in a pool of $11,010. The 1973 grants range from $100 honorary awards for five students to $2,000 grants to two students to support a first year's course of study.

According to Stanley M. Adelson of Princeton University and Chairman of C.D.A.'s Selection Committee, C.D.A. awards are made on the basis of a personal interview, an evaluation of the applicant's school record, aptitude, interests, hobbies and supplementary work experience. Financial need is the overriding factor in determining the amount of the award.

Says Mr. Adelson, "The intention of the C.D.A. Program is to reward and to honor the achievement of students whose talents and career goals do not require enrollment in a four-year college to help these students develop skills so necessary to society. The hundred dollar awards are bestowed as honors. Additionally, C.D.A. is prepared to subsidize training where financial need exists." Mr. Adelson adds that "C.D.A. grants are renewable for a 2-year training program, upon satisfactory completion of the first year."

Serving with Adelson on the Selection Committee were: Max Blumenfeld, retired executive of American Cyanamid Corp., Bruce Edwards, of Princeton Middle School, and Robert Nelson of the Nelson Glass Co.

First school of choice for many of the 1973 C.D.A. winners is Mercer County Community College with Lincoln Technical Institute in Union, running second. C.D.A. recipients will also be attending the Katherine Gibbs School in Montclair, N.J.; the National Camera Institute in Englewood, Colorado; Franconia College in New Hampshire; Garland Junior College in Boston; and Massey Junior College in Georgia.

The sixteen 1973 Career Development Awards recipients are:

Marie Jacqueline Broadwater, 54 Herrontown Road, a graduate of Princeton High School, who will be studying secretarial science at the Katherine Gibbs School in Montclair.

Stephanie R. Bucci, Spring Hill Road, Skillman, a graduate of Montgomery High School, who will be studying fashion design at Garland Junior College in Boston.

Kevin G. Burdwood, 156 North Harrison Street, a graduate of Princeton High School, who will be studying business administration at Mercer County Community College.

Princeton House Providing Aid to Alcoholics

REHABILITATION THROUGH TEACHING — Ms. Sheri Long, alcoholic rehabilitation counsellor, conducts small group discussions as part of comprehensive program at Princeton House, mental health unit of The Princeton Medical Center.

Individually, they may include a housewife, a university professor, a business executive or a high school junior. Collectively, they represent roughly one out of every ten Princeton area residents who drink.

They are the alcoholics — the business and social drinkers who have lost control over the luncheon martini, the afternoon sherry or the late evening "pop" wine party.

And they are among the increasing number of residents of all ages who are finding help through the alcoholic rehabilitation services of Princeton House.

This month, according to Princeton House officials, the program enters its "second generation" through the addition of a fulltime alcoholic rehabilitation counsellor.

From Drugs to Alcohol. Through the addition, believes Dr. William A. Phillips, medical director, The Princeton Medical Center's mental health unit will be "uniquely equipped" to meet what has become the area's most serious drug abuse problem.

"There is growing evidence," the medical director reports, "that the pendulum may be swinging from the use of 'hard' drugs and moving rapidly toward the use of alcohol, especially among the young."

"And despite the fact that alcoholism has been termed the nation's most serious drug problem," the medical director continues, "solutions to the problem have, at best, been piecemeal."

The expanded Princeton House program, he believes, puts all the pieces together.

Complete Program. "With the addition of a counsellor specializing in alcoholic rehabilitation," the director notes, "we are now in a position to offer both inpatients and outpatients a truly comprehensive program of medically and psychiatrically oriented services."

Those services, he explains, may begin in the Princeton House emergency room, where an alcoholic may seek treatment for "any number of" medical problems associated with alcoholism. Or, he adds, patients may be admitted directly in Princeton House through physician referral.

Whether transfer or direct admission could mark the beginning of a complete — and lasting — solution to the alcoholic's problem. The program, under the medical direction of Dr. Sydney B. Penick, begins with a complete evaluation by a member of The Medical Center's department of social work.

That evaluation, according to Frank X. Schneek, department director, may include a personal history as well as an analysis of the patient's domestic and professional environment.

Work With Families. "An important aspect here," adds Dr. Phillips, "is to work with the families of all patients in recognizing environmental and familiar factors possibly contributing to the patient's continued drinking."

Such recognition, he believes, "could alleviate the negative situation and help prepare for the patient's return to his family and environment."

ADD TOPICS — Mgt.

Social workers' findings are translated by members of the medical staff into an integrated program of individualized treatment conducted by the newly-appointed rehabilitation counsellor.

The counsellor, Ms. Sheri Long of Neshanic, presently meets twice daily with alcoholic patients "for discussion and educational purposes, supplemented by films and talks by members of the Princeton House medical staff."

Group Therapy. The counsellor also schedules group therapy twice weekly, works directly with members of the Princeton House occupational and recreational therapy departments, and coordinates discharge procedures.

A key element in the discharge procedure: Alcoholics Anonymous, a community agency which maintains continuing contact with patients through a series of meetings held at Princeton House and other locations throughout Mercer County.

While rehabilitation of the alcoholic remains the primary objective of the Princeton House alcoholism program, future plans call for development of a community education program and possible creation of a "halfway" house.

For the moment, the concern focuses on an average of 100 patients who receive weekly counselling for a problem which, based on national statistics, could be shared by as many as one in ten area residents.

90 Children Enjoying University Summer Camp

"Kamoinge," which means working together in Swahili, is a reading program designed to demonstrate that reading can be useful.

Monitoring a solar cell on sunlit and cloudy days demonstrates that energy is indeed derived from the sun.

And watching the path of a laser beam passing through a prism helps unravel the mysteries of light and optics.

Such programs, along with many others, are currently being initiated at the Princeton University Summer Camp in Blairstown. Founded by students and alumni in 1909, the Summer Camp has been supported and operated for 64 years by concerned Princetonians.

Ninety boys and girls—aged 8 through 14—arrived for the first of 3 two-week periods, Monday, July 9. They came from Princeton as well as from Lawrence Township, Skillman, Hightstown, Trenton and Philadelphia and were sent by agencies such as Princeton's Community House; the Summer in Engineering Program—a joint venture of the University's School of Engineering and Applied Science and the Princeton Regional School System; Hightstown's Neighborhood Service Center; the Morris County Economic Opportunity Council, Morris town, N.J.; United Progress, Inc., Trenton; Philadelphia's R. W. Brown Boys Club; the Philadelphia Crime Prevention Association; the West Philadelphia Boys' and Girls Club; the N. J. Neuro Psychiatric Institute, Skillman, N.J.; and the Central Jersey NAACP.

Support for each camper's fortnightly stay is provided by the sponsoring agency and "Friends of the Princeton Summer Camp," including the annual Campus Fund Drive.

300 To Benefit. An estimated 300 youngsters will have benefited by the time camp closes August 17. For many it will be a first-time experience in living in a 165-acre wilderness under the canopy of oak and hemlock surrounding tranquil Bass Lake.

According to Camp Director, Leonard G. Brown, Princeton 71, who also directs Princeton's Youth Center, "Most of the campers, drawn from the streets of cities and towns, are poorly motivated to acquire basic academic skills." In their "Kamoinge" activity, under the leadership of Andre Washington, Princeton University senior and Politics "major" from Willow Grove, Pa., the campers read about fishing, macramé, music, dance and cooking—the same skills they are learning to enjoy in the camp program.

Washington's approach is to demonstrate "the practical utility of reading to youngsters who feel that it is primarily an academic discipline that has little relevance to their lives."

"Socialization" aims at effecting a psychological awareness of the value of friendship and cooperation. Through their participation in "Socialization," an obstacle course, youngsters find that obstacles become easier if each helps the other.

"Kamoinge" and "Socialization" implement the year-round program of the Princeton Community House which reaches out to elementary and middle school students through workshops during after school hours.

In summertime, Community House at 166 Witherspoon St., founded 5 years ago by University undergraduates and directed by 1972 Princeton graduate, Fred Tyler, runs an all-day program for black youngsters of many ages. A 2-week stay at the Blairstown Camp has become an integral part of the Community House summer program which this year is sponsoring 50 campers.

Engineering. In its fifth year, the Summer in Engineering Program has moved off-campus to the Blairstown Camp. Like Community House, the Summer in Engineering Program will be sending some 50 youngsters to camp, but all the campers will benefit from the activity.

Faculty advisor for the Engineering Program, Wilmer R. Bottoms, Assistant Professor of Electrical Engineering, explains the objective of the program as offering first-hand experience in "how the principles and laws of science can solve problems of every day life."

Under the direction of Gilbert Mortensen, Chairman of Princeton High School's Mathematics Department, the Program will introduce campers to aspects of nature from which practical advantages can be extracted. Aside from the solar cell and laser demonstrations, intended to lay a groundwork for an appreciation of science, campers will learn about wind power at first hand as they convert canoes into sailboats and also design and test a variety of different sails.

The youngsters will also build and launch model jet boats on the lake, create an intercom hook-up linking a number of cabins, analyze the photographic process by taking, developing and printing pictures and generate electricity from water power. To foster an appreciation of a natural environment, the campers will also study samples of lake water and insects under microscopes.

A recent visit to the Blairstown Camp, some 60 miles from Princeton, found the youngsters engaged in "Kamoinge," "Socialization," Arts Snapping Turtle. The incident of the day occurred when Roosevelt Chapman, 14, a ninth-grader from Philadelphia's St. Malachy School accidentally stepped on an enormous snapping turtle whose green and brown markings had blended with the forest floor.

"I stepped on it. I looked down and I hollered it was a turtle," said Roosevelt. "I once saw a turtle as big as this in the zoo," he added. The creature, weighing some 20 pounds, had an extraordinarily mobile neck, which, permitting it to move in any direction and its mouth to zero in on any target. So, handle with caution was indicated. John Henkel, 16, a cabin counselor and 11th grader from Newman High School in Philadelphia (residence: 2415 South 12th Street), finally grasped it by the tail and installed it in a cage.

Mike Tetreau, a Princeton University senior in Civil Engineering (85 Nutmeg Lane, Fairfield, Conn.), showed the boys of Cabin 8—10 to 14-year-olds from Philadelphia—the model boats they will build and then launch across the lake with miniature jet engines.

"You guys know all about the space program and rockets and jets?" Tetreau began. "The thrust in a balloon is the same idea as a jet engine and what we're going to do is make jet boats."

"Make what?" said some of the boys.

"What we need," said Roosevelt Chapman, the turtle discoverer, "is sandpaper."

This season the Blairstown Camp has a staff of 27 people drawn from 7 colleges and universities around the country, along with Director Brown and his wife, Doris, who is the camp nurse. The sending agencies pay $100 per camper for each two-week stay. However, in that the actual cost per camper is $162, the "Friends of the Summer Camp" contribute a 62-dollar "scholarship" for each camper.

This meeting is an extension of the Educational Therapy Clinic's summer learning program. Attendance will be limited. Those interested, please call Elizabeth Travers, Director, or Marsha Lewis, Asst. Director, at 924-4663 for details and registration.

INJUNCTION SOUGHT

By 1-95 Opponents. Federal Judge Clarkson S. Fisher was scheduled to hold a hearing this past Wednesday in Trenton Federal Court on a request for a permanent injunction against further construction on Interstate Route 95 through Hopewell Township.

David Slve, attorney representing the 1-95 citizens group said that if an injunction were obtained, it would halt those portions of the 3.4-mile section of the roadway now under construction between the present terminus at Scotch Road and the planned interchange with 1-295 near Federal City Road in Lawrence Township.

The hearing was scheduled when the Third Circuit Court of Appeals in Philadelphia reversed a previous decision by Judge Fisher in which he concluded there was no genuine issue of fact on which to grant an injunction.

The citizen's suit contends that the state department of transportation failed to hold a public hearing on the 3.4 mile section of 1-95 now under construction.

SPORTS FANS!

BET
KNOW

Brought to you
By John Bernard

The U.S. Golf Association has sent out some tips on what to do if it begins lightning while you're on a golf course, and we're happy to pass these tips along to you. The USGA says: (1) Avoid high ground; (2) Stay away from metal fences and lakes; (3) Don't get under a lone tree; (4) If you can't reach the clubhouse before a storm strikes, choose a depression or valley in the ground, or better yet, a nearby automobile (which is one of the safest places of all to be during lightning.)

Here's a quote we saw recently that shows a reason why sports are so great. Coach Homer Smith once said, "The poorest boy can earn stardom—but the richest boy can't buy it."

Ever wonder why baseball games consist of nine innings instead of, say, eight or ten or some other number? In the early days of baseball, teams played any number of innings. The winner of a game then was the first team to score 21 runs, regardless of how many innings were played. That rule wasn't changed until 1857 when it was decided to limit the game to a specific number of innings. Nine innings were picked to represent the nine men on a team.

I bet you didn't know that a golfer is protected by the liability section of his Homeowner's insurance policy if he should hit someone with a golf ball.

NYL WINS TWO
For Babe Ruth Lead, New York Life won its third and fourth straight game last week to capture first place in the Princeton Babe Ruth League. Thorne's Pharmacy and PBA are tied for second with 3-2 records, while Princeton Bank and Trust is still winless in five starts.

NYL defeated Thorne's, 4-2, when it tallied two runs in the sixth. In the inning, NYL got a reprieve when the catcher dropped a third strike which would have been the final out. Scott Thompson immediately capitalized on the error, batting in the winnings runs with a single up the middle.

Mike Boonin was the winning pitcher. Losing pitcher Dave Shillaber had three hits of Boonin.

NYL also defeated Bank and Trust, 8-2, with Dave Robinson going the distance. Jim Lennon, Dave Seagers and Boonin led the NYL hitting attack, while Pat King and Jon Silverman each had two hits for the losers. King was the losing pitcher.

PBA split, stopping the Bank, 8-1, and then losing to Thorne's, 8-4.

PBA hurler Joe Herrmann allowed only three hits in the Bank win, yielding singles to Ken Bartolino, Junior Oldham and Silverman. For the victors, Tom Herquist collected three hits and Bob McHugh ripped a triple. Silverman was tagged with the loss.

In the Thorne loss, McHugh homered, had two other hits and pitched the game but he was overshadowed by Thorne pitcher Jim LaNaca who banged out four hits.

LaNaca was backed up at the plate by Terry McEwen who also homered and by John Macenluse, Lew Gumbiner and Dave Shillaber.

CHAMPIONSHIPS HERE
In National Junior Rowing. The national Junior Rowing Championships will be held on Princeton University's Lake Carnegie course, on this Thursday and Friday, with a trip to the World Junior Championships in Nottingham, England awaiting the winners in 15 different events.

The races are being sponsored by the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen. Events will be run on July 19 and the finals the next day.

Immediately following the Junior competition on Lake Carnegie will be the trials for the World Small Boat Championships scheduled for Moscow in early September.

On July 21 and 22, there will be competition in the four oared shell without coxswain, the pair with coxswain and in

Women's Golf Tourney Set

The annual Mercer County Ladies' Golf Tournament sponsored by the Mercer County Park Commission will be held on Wednesday, July 25, at the Mountain View Golf Course.

Registration for the tournament, which is open to all Mercer County residents, will continue through 7 p.m. Tuesday, July 24. Skip Ferrara, pro at Mountain View, is in charge of the registration program.

Starting times for tournament play on July 25 will be from 8:30 a.m. until 10:30 a.m. No post entries will be accepted.

Last year's defending champion is Mrs. Shirley Rosser of Hopewell Valley.

single sculls. That will be followed on August 2-3 by the title races in the pair without coxswain and in doubles.

In preparation for both events, Princeton University has installed six lanes of 2000 meters each, on the northern sector of Carnegie Lake. The lanes are marked with buoys that are attached to 14 mile lengths of special cable.

According to Princeton varsity heavyweight coach Pete Sparhawk, the new six lane course will have yellow buoys some 20 meters apart for the first 1500 meters and red buoys, also 20 meters apart, for the final 500.

"In order to achieve the six lane set-up, the course had to be shifted almost 300 feet," Sparhawk said. "Now there is a straight current which is to the advantage of the shells, no wind problem and no launches. We have cut out the variables, so a coach can now get more out of his crew."

girls interested in tournaments have been traveling to area matches under the supervision of a counselor from the staff of the Princeton Community Tennis Program. To date it is estimated that in 11 events, there were more than 100 entrants.

This week, juniors 14 and under and 12 and under will be competing in the Princeton Junior Tennis Tournament, sponsored by the Princeton Recreation Office.

A draw of close to 90 entries was made over the weekend. Play started on Monday and will continue throughout the week at Community Park Courts. Matches are scheduled around class times and other conflicts.

DALLAS NEXT STOP

For Jay Lapidus, Jay Lapidus of Galbreath Drive, one of Princeton's outstanding young tennis players, will compete this week in the 1973 USLTA Boys' 14 National Hardcourt Tennis Championships in Dallas, Texas. Players are invited by the USLTA on the basis of their ranking and tournament record during the year.

Jay was the No. 2 ranked 14 year old in the Middle States region last year. In three tournaments this year he has won two and reached the final round in the third.

After the Dallas event, Jay will travel to Davidson, N.C. to participate in the National Clay Court Championships to be held July 30 through August 6.

Last week, competing in the Lower Merion tournament in Philadelphia, which drew 128 entrants, Jay lost only 12 games in the entire tournament. He won the semi final round, 6-1, 6-0, and the finals, 6-1, 6-2.

Michael Collbran and Bill Bolmer, the latter a guest from Bound Brook, won the low net, and Paul Kelly captured the low net in the junior class. The longest drive award was won by Jane Silverstone, while Louisa Silverstone claimed the longest drive by a guest.

Prizes were awarded by Kay Kelly of Belle Mead, president, and by Charlotte Shapiro, prize chairman.

TIGER STAR NAMED

To Football Hall of Fame, Harold Ballin, two time All-American from Princeton University, has been elected to the National Football Foundation's Hall of Fame.

Named with 11 others, Ballin will be honored this fall during one of the Tigers' home football games.

Born in New York City, 1893, he was a starting tackle at Princeton from 1913-15, earning a spot on Walter Camp's All American team his junior and senior years.

Football captain his senior year, Ballin also participated in track and wrestling. The Lawrenceville graduate received a Princeton engineering degree in 1915.

After serving with the Marine Corps in World War I, Ballin was a line coach at Princeton for two years and Lafayette for one before taking over as head coach in Duquesne for two seasons.

POST 76 LONES TWO

Falls Nine Games Behind. If Princeton Post 76 could somehow bypass the first inning, it might have better luck in the Mercer County American Legion baseball League.

Post 76 lost two games last week, falling to Hopewell, 14-9, on Thursday and front-running Ewing, 5-0, on Saturday. In each, the contest was decided by the time the first inning had ended.

Pitcher John Mooney listed only two thirds of an inning as Hopewell pushed nine runs across. Post 76 came back to cut the deficit to 9-1 in its half of the first, but the winners added single tallies in the second and third and two more in the fourth to stay comfortably ahead. Mooney, whose record fell to 1-3, was followed to the mound by Glen Christensen, George Reynolds and Gary Leonardo.

Against Ewing, Post 76 gave up only three runs in the first inning, but it was all the visitors needed. Post 76's attack consisted of three hits earned by Chris Crane, Bill Bartolo and Mooney. Ewing added two insurance runs in the third. Reynolds pitched six innings and is now 2-2.

FIRST WIN FOR H&L

Defeats Eagles, 4-2. It had to wait 10 games, but H&L and Ladder finally picked up that elusive first win last week downing Eagles, 4-2, in PYBA Little League action.

Al Kandell, pitching his first game, gave up only two hits, walked three and struck out 11 to get the win. Key hits for H&L were John Heinzel's triple and Joe Lapsley's double.

The Eagles' loss broke up a four way tie for second place, as three of the four teams involved suffered losses. Only Engine No. 1, which has been winning the close ones, held fast and now has second place all to itself.

No. 1 outlugged Post 76, 10-9, despite a first inning grand slam by Steve Smith. Post 76 increased it, lead on the hitting of Tony Pittman and Woody Clark, but No. 1 peeked away, scoring in every inning. Rob Little and Mike Nosal each had three hits for No. 1.

No. 1's second victory was at the expense of the Elks, as Peter Sharpless fanned 11 on his way to an 8-6 victory. He was helped by three home runs, two off the bat of Keith Phox and one by Al Perone. For the Elks, Evan Press homered and teammate Chris Wallace collected three hits.

Roma Elterna bounced back from its only loss last week, winning both its starts. It defeated IASC, 8-5, sparked by home runs by Mark Adams and winning pitcher Carl Nazario.

Against Hook & Ladder, Roma built on an early 5-0 lead to earn a 12-7 decision. Dave Fitzgerald batted 3 for 4 and Nazario stroked his second homer of the week for the victors. Alex Versheid had a pair of doubles and Kevin Cooke three hits for the losers.

The Eagles' defeated IASC on a strong pitching performance by Rich Johnson and the clutch hitting of Aaron Gross, who batted in three runs and Mike Meluskey, who got his first hit. The losers were kept in the game by the hitting of Mario Mangone, Bobby Campbell and Billy Perna.

Post 76 topped Engine No. 3 behind the pitching of Chip Kleiber and hitting of Ian Broadwater.

In a contest described by league scorer Bernard Miller as "one of the warmest, longest and highest scoring games of the year," Engine No. 3 outlasted the Elks, 23-19. Darnley Kirtin's grand slam proved to be the winning margin as Eric Schwartzentruber hurled a fine three inning stint for the win. Reliever Cliff Gibbons snuffed out a last inning rally by the Elks to register a save.

BUSINESS In Princeton

5% INTEREST OFFERED

By Princeton Bank. William R. Cosby, Chairman of the Board, has announced that The Princeton Bank and Trust Company will pay eight percent per annum interest on four-year savings certificates purchased now through July 31.

This new interest rate is the highest paid by any bank in the area and is based on a minimum deposit of $5,000 and a maximum deposit of $25,000. Mr. Cosby states that this limited offering is made primarily to introduce more people to the various savings programs offered by The Princeton Bank, as well as to its other services.

In addition, The Princeton Bank is paying 5½ percent on 90-day certificates, 6 percent on 1 year to 2½ year certificates, 6½ percent on 2½ year certificates and 7 percent on 4 year certificates with a minimum deposit of $1,000.

Regular passbook savings are now at 5 percent and the Golden Passbook earnings rate is 5½ percent.

GROWTH CONTINUES

At Princeton Savings. Against a background of record consumer spending, higher interest rates and unsettled money markets, William H. Booser Jr., president of Princeton Savings and Loan Association reported as "most gratifying" the continued record growth achieved by the Association in the first half of 1973.

Total assets reached a new high of $43,787,222, up 10 percent for the first six months of the year. For the full June 1 to June year, assets increased by $8,051,855, a 23 percent rise.

Net savings grew by 14 percent or $5,135,093 since December 31st, and by 25 percent or $8,178,333 since June 30, 1972. These figures are particularly meaningful in light of the fact that a number of other financial institutions throughout the country have experienced dramatically lower rates of growth during this phase of the business cycle," Mr. Booser said.

"Adding to our posture has been our new Lawrenceville office, which was opened on February 3 of this year. As we closed our books on June 30th, Lawrenceville showed a gain of one million dollars in deposits for the period," he reported. The office, located at 2643 Main Street, is the first branch office for the Association which was founded in 1917.

Princeton Savings continued to provide funds to the local housing market, a total of $6,383,967 in mortgage loans since June 30, 1972, bringing the mortgage portfolio to a total of $38,473,874.

SAVINGS RATES UPPED

By First National. The First National Bank of Princeton has raised its savings account rates to the highest level permitted by law, according to John F. Hoff III, president.

The new policy will enable individuals to receive 5 percent on all new and existing regular savings accounts rather than 4 1/2 percent which has been the prevailing rate.

Holders of Investment Passbook Savings Accounts with a minimum balance of $250 will now be paid 5 1/2 percent instead of 5 percent. A rate of 6 percent will be paid for one-year Savings Certificates issued in multiples of $100 with a $500 minimum.

A still higher rate of 6.27 percent will be paid to holders of Pyramid Growth Certificates issued for two years based upon a deposit of at least $500. This higher yield is achieved through daily compounding, with interest payable annually.

A rate of 6 1/2 percent will be paid for savings certificates with a three-year maturity and with a minimum deposit of $500. These Certificates can be issued for additional multiples of $100, and all interest is paid quarterly.

In keeping with First National's full service policy, present holders of any of the above types of accounts or certificates will automatically receive the higher rates beginning today.

NET EARNINGS RISE

At N.J. National Bank. New York, N.J., reported that

Jersey National Corporation, parent company of New Jersey National Bank and New Jersey National Bank of Princeton, has reported total assets of $732,293,035 as of June 30.

This is an increase of $31,821,324 over the June 30, 1972 total. For the first six months of 1973, income before security transactions was $3,362,307 compared with $2,818,402 the previous year.

Net earnings per share on average shares outstanding were $2.03 compared to $1.58 on the average shares outstanding in 1972. Consolidated net earnings for the six months ending June 30, 1973 were $3,355,646 compared to $2,838,701 for the like period in 1972, a gain of 18%.

Richard G. Macgill, chairman, earnings do not include those of Underwood Mortgage and Title Co., acquired by the Corporation earlier this year. Earnings will not be consolidated until results of a final audit are received.

"The recent increase in interest rates commercial banks are permitted to pay on retail savings is expected to increase the inflow of deposits, to provide funds to meet the continuing strong loan demand," Mr. Macgill reported. New Jersey National Bank and New Jersey National Bank of Princeton, both subsidiaries of the Corporation, began offering higher rates to savers on July 6, one Federal Regulation.

IVY INN LOSES FIRST

Center Sports Galax, Ivy Inn, stated that "reported Inn lost its first game in the Adult Softball league, dropping a 7-3 decision to Hinds, and Center Sports edged past Sannino's, 4-3, to highlight last week's league activity.

Tied 3-3, Hinds erupted for four runs in the seventh inning against Ivy as Dick McGee, Steve McLain, Dick McGee Jr., Pete Young and Leighton Newlin sparked the rally. Ivy, in turn, suffered its first hitting draught of the season and could do nothing in its final turn at bat.

Sannino's was leading, 3-1 when Brendon Layton of Center Sports wiped that out with one swing of the bat. His three-run homer proved to be the difference in the game — saw both clubs connect for a total of just 13 hits.

Conte — Staats moved into second place by coming from behind to defeat Hinds, 11-5. Conte connected for eight straight hits in the fifth inning for seven runs to turn a 5-4 deficit into a big lead.

Ivy Inn barely escaped its first loss earlier in the week when PIASC came close to upsetting the Big Green. PIASC trailed, 6-4, going into the last half of the seventh, but safeties by Sam Procacini, Lou John Rossi and Gerry Perpetua scored one run.

Dick Wellevor followed with a blast to right field that would have scored the winning runs had not Tom Devito made a fine catch for Ivy to end it.

The Italian-Americans had no better luck in their next outing as they fell victim to Andy's Tavern. The Tavern club scored four runs in the first, highlighted by Doug Barone's homer, and added more runs in the second, third, fourth and fifth frames. Alan Kendal batted 3-for-4 for Andy's, while Hugo Rossi had three hits in three at bats for PIASC.

There is a great deal of nostalgia about today concerning Colonial America. But one must remember that much of the housing in colonial times was both inadequate and unsanitary. That is why we are lucky today to be able to have the best of both worlds. We have the styles of the early days of our country blended with our own best modern knowledge of convenience, roominess, and, of course, plumbing!

Homes to suit every personal preference are available through WALTER B. HOWE INC., 1 Palmer Sq., Princeton 924-0095, Pennington (737-3300) and W. Windsor (799-1100). Open 9-9, Sat. 9-5, Sun. 1-5. Eager buyers waiting to see your property... so list with us for a fast sale.
